DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF KANSAS WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY:

I am pleased to provide you with a copy of the Annual Report for Kansas Wesleyan University for the 2007-2008 fiscal year.

As you will see throughout this document, we have had another successful year. We have completed construction of our first new building on campus since 1981, our new Student Activities Center. We have completed a major landscaping of the campus and are looking at other projects to continue to enhance the facilities, programs, and services at Kansas Wesleyan University. We endeavor to remain good stewards of the resources that you and others have entrusted with us.

On behalf of this fine University, thank you for your continued support of Kansas Wesleyan University. It is through the grace, generosity, and support from so many that we are able to fulfill our mission and serve the needs of our community. May God continue to bless you and Kansas Wesleyan University.

Sincerely,

Philip P. Kerstetter, Ph.D.
President & CEO
ACCREDITATIONS

Three major accrediting bodies gave Kansas Wesleyan University their approval during Fiscal Year 2008.

In October 2007, Kansas Wesleyan received official notification from the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges that the regional accreditation for the University, including all of its undergraduate and graduate academic programs, has been continued for the next 10 years. Additionally, the Higher Learning Commission (HLC) placed no stipulations for either follow-up reports or return visits during the 10-year continuation.

In late spring of 2008, the University was notified that it had met the criteria of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) for its initial teacher preparation program. The next NCATE visit is scheduled for 2014.

Also late in the spring of 2008, the University Senate of the United Methodist Church sent word that it had approved, without qualification, Kansas Wesleyan’s continued affiliation status with the United Methodist Church. The affiliation is for 10 years, which is the maximum period possible.

STUDENTS

The Fall 2007 headcount enrollment was 864, a decline of 30 students, yet headcount remained above 850 for only the third time in University history and above 800 for the sixth consecutive year. Contributing to the University’s headcount was a more than 6.3 percent increase in the retention of students from the previous year.

ENROLLEMENT

While the decline in headcount slightly impacted the number of students living in the University’s residence halls, the campus residential facilities remained a lively, vibrant part of University life. Pfeiffer continued as the women’s residence hall. Wesley Hall provided housing for men. Again this year, Wilson Hall’s coed living environment proved to be a positive aspect of residential life.

ACTIVITIES AND INTRAMURALS PROGRAM

Total participation in activities and intramurals rose 8.98 percent in Fiscal Year 2008 for a total of 6,923. In all 432 persons, including 34 staff/faculty members, participated in one or more events. Of those participating, 245 were new participants and 48 were first-time freshmen. The number of teams participating rose by 11.58 percent to 95.

In October of 2007, approximately 130 Kansas Wesleyan students joined forces with approximately 70 Kansas State University-Salina (KSU-Salina) students to help the Salina community. The collaboration came about after KSU-Salina students who were interested in starting a community service project similar to Kansas Wesleyan’s spring event: Project HERO (Helping Everyone Reach Out), contacted members of Kansas Wesleyan’s Student Government Association. The fall collaboration is known as Project HUNT (Helping University Neighborhoods Together).

Two groups of Kansas Wesleyan University students joined together with others in the community to benefit children at Ashby House, a local family shelter. The groups came together to decorate, furnish, and stock a children’s room at the Ashby House facility at 153 S. Eighth. Kansas Wesleyan’s Teacher Education students collected hundreds of children’s books and toys for the Ashby House room. Additionally, the group secured a grant from the Kansas National Education Association to purchase furniture for the room. The Art Club at Kansas Wesleyan lent its talents to the project by painting a mural in the children’s room. The two groups of Kansas Wesleyan students were joined by a group of St. John’s Military School students, who built a bookshelf for the room. Additionally, through the Greater Salina Community Foundation, the Blueprint for Leadership group secured funds to put carpet in the room.

A group of international students at Kansas Wesleyan shared the cuisine of their countries during the International Food Festival in April of 2008. The festival was held in conjunction with the Sunday evening Buck Meal at University United Methodist Church. Approximately 15 different dishes representing the cuisine of eight countries were served and recipes were provided.

Kansas Wesleyan seniors challenged members of the faculty to a series of games designed to provide fun and build community. The resulting Faculty-Senior Challenge in April proved quite popular with both groups. Members of the University’s Administrative Staff served as judges and referees.

The third annual Project HERO (Helping Everyone Reach Out) community service day drew more than 100 Kansas Wesleyan students and a number of faculty and staff to 14 work sites throughout Saline County. The event concluded with a barbeque lunch at Kirwin House, the home of President and Mrs. Philip P. Kerstetter.

CAREER SERVICES

Fiscal Year 2008 saw continued growth in the Career Services Office as more and more students found success as they developed resume, cover letter, and interview skills and then put them to work for their futures. Many students also participated in workshops such as: Mock Interviews and Graduate School Application Strategy, as well as classroom presentations on resume/cover letter writing, interviewing, and establishing teaching credential files. Additionally, students took advantage of events offered by Career Services such as: Hire-A-Coyote, I-135/70 Career Opportunity Expo, Nursing Career Fair, Teacher Interview Day, and Graduate School Information Fair where they connected with employers and graduate school representatives. The most exciting project of Fiscal Year 2008 was the preparation and installation during the summer months of a new online resource tool – known as Coyote Career Connections – for students, alumni, and employers to aid in career development, job searches, and professional networking.

ACADEMIC

Both students and faculty kept busy with a variety of activities during Fiscal Year 2008.

During the University’s Opening Convocation in August of 2007, Dr. Steve Hoekstra, Associate Professor of Psychology, was named the 2007 recipient of the University’s Exemplary Teacher Award. Sponsored jointly by the United Methodist Board of Higher Education and Ministry and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, the Exemplary Teacher Award is presented to a Kansas Wesleyan University faculty member who shows excellence in teaching; is active in his/her profession and professional societies; provides exemplary service to the university and broader community; demonstrates cooperative and supportive attitudes towards colleagues, students and others; and is committed to values-centered education.

Kansas Wesleyan Art students and artists throughout the area were able to enhance their world view of art, thanks to Jerry Buhari, a visiting professor from Ahmadu Bello University in Zaria, Nigeria. While at the University in the fall of 2007, Buhari assisted with art classes and presented a number of lectures throughout the area. His time at Kansas Wesleyan concluded with an exhibition of paintings he completed while in the United States.

The appearance at Kansas Wesleyan by the British Debate Team representatives was one of three stops the duo made in Kansas. Kansas Wesleyan students interested in Forensic Science got a glimpse of what work in that field was like during “KBI Forensic Laboratory: The Real CSI.” The seminar, which was open to the public, was presented in November by Michelle McGinness, a forensic scientist with the Kansas Bureau of Investigation.

For the second consecutive year, members of the Kansas Wesleyan University Physics Club saw their efforts soar sky high with the successful launch of a high-altitude balloon on November of 2007. At its highest point, the balloon reached 96,000 feet. The project was able to gather data on location, altitude, and temperature both inside and outside the payload. Through tracking equipment, the group was able to recover the downed balloon and equipment in a field northwest of Emporia several hours after the launch.

Members of the Kansas Wesleyan University Philharmonic Choir were heard throughout a good portion of Kansas as Radio Kansas, the public radio network for central and western Kansas, broadcast live the evening Christmas by Candlelight service in December. From January 10-March 16, 2008, The Gallery in Sams Hall of Fine Arts was the site for part of a exhibition of art from India. “New Narratives: Contemporary Art from India” was a collaborative effort of Kansas Wesleyan and the Salina Art Center. A variety of activities were held in conjunction with the exhibit, which included paintings, photographs, sculptures, installations, and works in video and new media. Sixty works by 21 artists were featured in the exhibition.

Kansas Wesleyan Teacher Education students heard first-hand accounts of the teaching profession from some of the state’s best. Seven finalists for the 2008 Kansas Teacher of the Year Award were on campus in February to share their experiences and insights with the Kansas Wesleyan students.

Award-winning director/writer Kevin Willmott visited Kansas Wesleyan in February to discuss race and film. The presentation, “History in Black and Brown,” was part of the University’s celebration of African-American History Month.

High school sophomores, juniors, and seniors who were interested in becoming teachers participated in Kansas Wesleyan’s Albert Nelson Teacher Academy Day in February. The event was named in honor of the late Dr. Albert Nelson, who taught in the Education Department of Kansas Wesleyan from 1956-1988.

Whether Roe vs. Wade should be overturned was an event topic in Kansas Wesleyan Debate’s Issues and Advocacy program. The event, conducted in February 2008, featured a public debate between Kansas Wesleyan Debaters and a team from the Salina community.

Student candidates for Kansas Wesleyan’s Teacher Education program found out how poverty impacts learning during a workshop in February. The workshop, which utilized Dr. Ruby Payne’s “A Framework for Understanding Poverty,” was led by Kansas Wesleyan alumna Brenda McDaniel (‘73), who taught in Salina for a number of years before moving to the Smoky Hill Education Service Center.

Kansas Wesleyan’s Debate and Forensics squad garnered a number of awards and trophies throughout its season, including several championships from the National Christian College Forensics Tournament in March 2008. Additionally, the final of the Kansas College and University State Parliamentary Debate Championships was an all-Kansas Wesleyan affair, as two of the University’s teams ended up tied for first.

The Kansas Wesleyan Jazz Ensemble concert on April 9 had special meaning to members of the University and Salina communities, as it was dedicated to the memory of the late Salina heart surgeon Dr. Mace Braxton. Braxton, who greatly enjoyed jazz, served on the University’s Board of Trustees from October 1999 until his death in February of 2008.

Inge Auerbacher, an award-winning author and Holocaust survivor, was the special guest speaker during Kansas Wesleyan’s 2008 Holocaust Remembrance Week April 14-18, 2008. A variety of Holocaust-related events and information were available throughout the Holocaust Remembrance Week, which was sponsored by the Department of History, Department of Behavioral Science and Human Services, Division of Fine Arts, and the Memorial Library.

More than 90 Kansas Wesleyan University students assisted with the 10th annual Kansas Kids Fitness Day for third graders on May 2, 2008. Kansas Kids Fitness Day provides children with a day of non-competitive activity and education. The event is sponsored each May by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment as a part of National Physical Education and Sports Month.

Use of the Memorial Library continued to increase in Fiscal Year 2008. The gate count for persons using the library was 41,451, an increase of 2% over Fiscal Year 2007. Additionally, library material circulation was 4,155, a 22% increase over Fiscal Year 2007.

During Fiscal Year 2008, four full-time positions were added, three in Academics and one in Athletics. In Academics, teaching positions were added in Languages, English, and Nursing Education. In Athletics, the former Women’s Basketball/Volleyball Coach position was split into two positions.

Kansas Wesleyan’s Student Government Association presented two Distinguished Service Awards to employees during the annual Honors Convocation in May. The Reverend Dr. John Blackwell, Dean of the Chapel, received the Administration and Staff Distinguished Service Award, and Dr. Tor Wynn, Assistant Professor of Sociology, received the Faculty Distinguished Service Award.

As Fiscal Year 2008 came to an end on June 30, the largest capital project in recent University history – the construction of the new Student Activities Center – neared completion. Located on the corner of Claflin and Fourth, the Student Activities Center includes academic, athletic, recreational, and social opportunities. The $12 million, 70,000-square foot Student Activities Center was designed by Salina architect Jeff Gillam of Jones, Gillam, and Renz.

City of Salina regulations requiring landscaping around new buildings prompted the University to implement a more comprehensive landscaping plan for the campus. Landscaping work began in June of 2008. Not only did the plan provide for landscaping around the Student Activities Center, but it also created a pedestrian mall and water feature in front of Pioneer Hall, new meandering pathways between the buildings, and garden areas. The Bean Memorial Well was moved from its location just outside the east entrance to Pioneer Hall to its new home in the grassy area just south of the east end of Pioneer Hall. As a part of the widening of the front entry way to campus, the historic limestone gates were taken down.

INSTITUTIONAL ADVANCEMENT

During Fiscal Year 2008, the Office of Institutional Advancement continued its concentration on stewardship and donor recognition. An extra effort specifically was placed on the Student Activities Center donor stewardship and recognition. Donor recognition signage and event planning consumed much of the staff’s time. Included in these efforts were the solicitation of funds for named brick opportunities on the patio of the Student Activities Center.

Alumni and friends of Kansas Wesleyan University left 427 messages on engraved bricks that were available for $100 each. Donors who honored their time at Kansas Wesleyan noted accomplishments, and thanked family and professors among other messages. Less than 30 bricks are still available at the current Student Activities Center site. The Office of Institutional Advancement is still accepting requests from those interested.

Donor recognition and stewardship efforts also continued in the area of planned giving, while two initiatives were implemented.

One initiative created a new tradition for Founders Day. Heritage Society members were invited to a Founders Day celebration that focused on recognizing individuals whose thoughtful charitable acts provide opportunities for current and future generations of Kansas Wesleyan students through endowed scholarships and planned gifts. The Kansas Wesleyan University Foundation currently administers 160 endowed scholarships. Four new scholarships were started in Fiscal Year 2008. New scholarships, which require a minimum fund balance of $5,000, will award at least a 4% yearly scholarship even in times of poor market returns.

The Institutional Advancement Office also added an initiative to support and enhance the efforts of the Division of Fine Arts: Friends of the Fine Arts. Through this initiative, annual gifts from individuals and businesses were designated to support Fine Arts programs, facilities, activities, and scholarships. In Institutional Advancement’s first effort, 65 donors contributed $8,685 in Fiscal Year 2008.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
The Kansas Wesleyan University Alumni Association remained quite active in providing assistance to campus entities and participating in the University community. Members who attended the free lunch on the second Thursday of each month heard from eight different speakers representing a variety of academic and athletic areas of campus, as well as from retired State Senator Ben Vidricksen (’51), who discussed the state of politics in Kansas. Additionally, those attending the February meeting heard from a representative of the Salina Art Center, who spoke about the collaboration between Kansas Wesleyan and the Salina Art Center on an exhibition of art from India.

In addition to paying on its pledge for an office in the Student Activities Center, the Alumni Association also provided funding for a number of projects including the following.

- $500 to the University United Methodist Church for Buck Meals
- The continental breakfast and snacks at Homecoming
- Prizes for the Wesleyan Showcase talent show and the Office Door Decorating Contest at Homecoming
- A party for fall graduates and a reception after Commencement in the spring
- Special Alumni gifts for those persons graduating
- A $1,000 grant to visiting Nigerian artist Jerry Buhari for a laptop computer that he could use in his teaching in Nigeria
- The purchase of a $200 painting by Buhari for the University
- $500 for supplies for Project Hero

Alumni Association officers for Fiscal Year 2008 were Gordon Gorton (’67), President; Phil Coleman (’68), Vice President; Kim George (’01), Secretary; and Ben Vidricksen (’51), Treasurer.
